

CAMPFIRE TREATS

S'more Than a Feeling

We raise a toasted marshmallow in honor of America's favorite camping snack and add some twists to a classic.

► RVing and campfires go hand in hand, as do s'mores and campfires. As kids, we got hooked on these oh-so-tasty treats by skewering puffy marshmallows, roasting them over a roaring fire, and then squishing them between graham crackers and a hunk of chocolate while stars twinkled overhead. While s'mores purists will say you can't improve upon this campsite hit, we've listed a few twists that'll make your taste buds go wild. Get creative! Add what you like: bacon, Nutella, chocolate-covered pretzels, banana, or swapping out the graham crackers for your favorite cookies. Now let's get roasting those marshmallows!

PEANUT BUTTER

I'm nuts about peanut butter and I'm not alone since Americans consume around 700 million pounds annually. Spread a dollop of smooth or crunchy PB on a graham cracker, or better yet, sandwich a peanut butter cup between the graham crackers and warm marshmallows. Or how about both?!

LOAD 'EM UP!

Pile on your favorite mini chocolate bars—and why limit yourself to just one variety?—for ooey-goopy deliciousness. Too much chocolate? Not possible, in my opinion! We've used Snickers, Milky Way, Mr. Goodbar, M&M's, Twix—really, the sky's the limit and you simply can't go wrong. ■

THE SALTY FIX

Mouth-watering dark (or milk) chocolate salted caramel paired with graham crackers and marshmallows is absolutely scrumptious. Use the candies and/or pour caramel topping over a warm-off-the-skewer marshmallow, and sprinkle with sea salt.

RICE KRISPIES

Rice Krispies Treat? Sure! They're bursting with marshmallows and will add even more crunch.
