

Poor Man's Slide Tray

Ever notice those neat side trays in the newer rigs? Wish you had one? Well, here is the poor man's way. I used an under bed storage unit. You know, one of these long containers that have wheels on them. I found one at Big Lots for $10 that just fit perfectly into one of my front storage compartments. I discarded the lid, and added a drop down leg to hold it up when it's pulled out. It really helps getting to those items that are way in the back of the compartment. They come in various sizes so measure your compartment and go shopping. For the leg I used a small hinge and a piece of discarded Molding.
